1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Biehl et al. Biehl et al discloses a microtome having a cooling chamber and a single display 19 which is a user interface for both the microtome and the cooling chamber. See especially column 3, line 47 to column 4, line 4.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Biehl et al. Biehl et al discloses the claimed invention except for the type of input device used. The type of input device used is a matter of obvious choice to one of ordinary skill in the art, as all of the recited types of devices recited, i.e. the mouse, trackball, keyboard, PDA, touch screen, and joystick, are considered to be well known types of input devices. No criticality or unexpected results are seen or have been disclosed for the use of any of the recited input devices. Furthermore, one of ordinary skill in the art would be able to modify Biehl et al to provide the display 19 with any one of the recited input devices.

Art Unit: 3744

5. Claims 6 and 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
6. Claim 2 recites the limitation "the...screen" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
